Recommended Book of the Week

By Victoria

Kajus Anisimenko - Dirty Bertie Worms! by Alan MacDonald

This book is about Dirty Bertie making up humorous jokes. Bertie made the giant laugh so hard that the giant popped! I really like this book and I would recommend this book to people who like to practice jokes because it is great to learn jokes from.

Tia Abidi – You Can't Eat a Princess/Princess Spaghetti by Gillian Rogerson

This book is about Princess Spaghetti having a royal ball and she cannot find her king but she sees a letter on the King's throne. Princess Spaghetti called the royal knights but the royal knights complained so she had to do it herself. She went on a rocket to a strange place and saw one of them with the King's crown so she demanded it back. I would recommend this book because it is funny and it also makes me happy.

Year 4

We visited a Mace construction site to see how it all works! This trip links so well with our current topic 'Home is where the heart is'. At the site, we learned so much about health and safety, the design process and how much constructing a building all costs!

It was a fabulous trip where we walked a lot, but saw so much of new and old London: Leadenhall Market, St Paul's Cathedral, Tower Bridge, Sky Garden. Then we had super views from the top of 120 Fenchurch Street roof garden!
